

KEEPING COMMUNITIES SAFE FROM CORONAVIRUS: REMOTE AREA TRAVEL RESTRICTIONS

The Australian Government is working to minimise the exposure of Coronavirus to remote and very remote communities. Access to these communities has been restricted to protect community members from the spread of Coronavirus. It's important that every service provider, Government agency and industry follow the guidelines on entering designated remote areas to help stop the spread of Coronavirus.

* Additional entry allowances apply for crossings between areas (water and land) where both the start and end point of the transit are within the designated area and also across adjoining designated areas
