

Delivering a local medical program for the Territory

A new locally-led medical program, the first of its kind, could be launched as early as 2023, to build a steady pipeline of doctors into regional, rural, and urban areas in the Northern Territory.

Charles Darwin University has joined Menzies School of Health Research (Menzies) in its aspirations to establish the CDU/Menzies Medical Program, as a part of a new Northern Australian Health Workforce Alliance to support the health workforce needs of the Northern Territory and, more broadly, northern Australia.

The opportunity to expand general practice and rural medicine training, consultant medical training and health research will be enhanced through such an Alliance.

More: Delivering a local medical program for the Territory | Charles Darwin University \(cdu.edu.au\)

Jessica Evans

Media and Communications Manager

Marketing, Media and Communications

T: +61 (08) 8946 7798

M: 0425 234 265

E: jessica.evans@cdu.edu.au

You make CDU