Our role also extends to accrediting medical schools in Aotearoa, and Australasian Colleges.

The AMC is seeking to appoint a Member of Council who is an Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander and who has experience in Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander health issues.

The term of appointment is for a maximum of four years, commencing at the conclusion of the AMC's Annual General Meeting on 25 November 2022.

The role of Council Members is two-fold:

- individual Members of a Company Limited by Guarantee with the roles and responsibilities outlined in the AMC Constitution and Commonwealth Acts
- a community of individuals bringing their views and experience as ambassadors of sectors or organisations to provide input to the operations and strategic direction of the AMC.

Members need to commit at least three full days per year to prepare for and attend the General Meeting (May/June) and Annual General Meeting (November). Members have the opportunity to collaborate with Council Members drawn from the medical profession, medical and health standards bodies, medical education and training, health consumers and community members and also have the opportunity to serve on AMC committees, expert groups and panels covering a range of business areas across the AMC.

The AMC is committed to diversity in Council Membership, reflecting diverse skills and experiences, geographical locations and academic, clinical, professional and community expertise.

To ensure we meet our strategic goal of ensuring culturally safe practice to improve health outcomes, we understand that we require Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander and Māori Peoples in our governance. We are committed to a working environment that is inclusive and culturally safe for all.

The AMC is a Company Limited by Guarantee and a registered charity. It is subject to the Corporations Act, Australian Charities and Not-for-Profits Commission Act, and operates in accordance with its Constitution.
